Man Accused of Shooting
Michigan Coed

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A 28-year-old repairman has been accused of the shooting death of a University of Michigan coed—the seventh young woman slain in the area in less than two years.
Sources close to the investigation said the man was released from the Southern Michigan Prison six months ago after serving a sentence for rape.
Police Chief Walter Krasny said the shooting victim, Margaret Phillips, 25, had been counselling the man, Ernest R. Bishop Jr., on how to improve his life. She was doing it "on her own," Krasny commented.
He said Miss Phillips also had "more than a casual interest" in the six previous slayings and had interviewed several persons on the subject. Two of the killings occurred while Bishop was in prison.
Miss Phillips was shot in her apartment early Saturday. She died Sunday without regaining consciousness.
Four heavily armed policemen arrested Bishop as he left his apartment building on the city's north side Sunday night.
The man, who is small and thin, had been working as a refrigeration repairman police said.
Washtenaw County Prosecutor William Delhey said Bishop, booked by police on an informal charge of premeditated murder, would be charged formally in District Court today.
Miss Phillips—a slim 5-foot-4 graduate student in sociology—was found by a neighbor and fellow student, Judith Rubin, who shared a kitchen with the victim.
Miss Rubin reportedly heard the gruff voice of a man, followed by shots, and hid in her own room until he left.
Miss Phillips, shot in the head and one hand with a .22-caliber pistol, was clad in blouse and slacks.
The Detroit News said Bishop was sentenced June 9, 1959 from Detroit Recorder's Court to 10-20 years on a rape conviction.
The six young women previously killed and the dates their bodies were found included Mary Flexzar, 19, an Eastern Michigan University coed at Ypsilanti, Aug. 7, 1967; Joan Schell, 20, an Eastern Michigan coed, July 25, 1968; Jane Miller, 23, a Michigan coed, last March 21; Marilyn Skelton, 16, a high school dropout from Romulus, Mich., March 25; Dawn Basom, 13, Ypsilanti junior high school student, April 16 and Alice Elizabeth Kalom, 21, a Michigan coed, June 9.

Apollo Crew
in Final Week of Training

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Relaxed after a July 4th weekend with their families, the Apollo 11 astronauts today begin their final days of training for next week's blastoff toward a landing on the moon.
Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., and Michael Collins planned a full day of sharpening skills in trainer spacecraft at Cape Kennedy following an early morning flight from their Houston, Tex., homes.
The three moonmen spent the holiday with their families near the Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston discussing the dangers of landing on the moon.
"They want to know every detail of what we're going to do and how we're going to do it," Armstrong said in an interview.
Aldrin said his wife Joan "perhaps has more concern for my peace of mind than for any danger that might befall me."
Collins, who will orbit the moon alone and act as lifeguard for his two colleagues exploring below, said his three children—Kathleen 10, Ann 7, and Michael 6—"are really too young to appreciate the implications of this flight."
"I got the three of them together and tried to explain the historic import. They sort of listened and nodded and only one question from my boy who wanted to know, 'Who's driving?'"
At the launch pad, crews today planned to check for leaks on spacecraft engines. Sunday, they finished repainting the outside of the Saturn 5's upper stage after the old coating—needed to protect supercold fuel from the sun—was found to be peeling.
Apollo 11 is to blast off at 9:32 a.m. EDT July 16, with Armstrong and Aldrin landing on the moon July 20. The next day, Armstrong is to leave the lunar module landing craft and make man's first step on the lunar crust.

Tribesmen Clash in Africa States

By PETER HINCHCLIFFE
NAIROBI (AP) — Small clashes between Luo and Kikuyu tribesmen flared Sunday in the wake of Tom Mboya's assassination and a government minister warned tribal warfare threatens Kenya.
Finance Minister Odera Jowi, who became the leading Luo in government with Mboya's death, said: "This is a tribal situation. We are going to have to fight hard to contain it. We have made appeals to our people for calm and order."
The Kikuyus, largest and most powerful tribe in Kenya, are led by President Joseph Kenyatta. The Luos had been led by Mboya, 38, minister of planning and economic development.
A Kikuyu who came to Mboya's house to view the open coffin was attacked by part of the wailing crowd of Luo mourners. When police tried to intervene, a stone-throwing mob forced them to leave the grounds.
Tribal disturbances in two other cities were quickly broken up by police. Two persons were reported injured and seven arrested in one clash.
Every available policeman was on duty throughout the country with an officer posted at every street corner in Nairobi, as the police pressed their nationwide hunt for the man who killed Mboya as he left a pharmacy in downtown Nairobi Saturday.
A police spokesman said there was "nothing new to report on our investigation." He was unable to give a description of Mboya's attacker or the car in which he fled.
Mboya was a popular politician both at home and throughout the world where he often represented Kenya at conferences. He lectured in New York last March.
Details of Mboya's funeral have not been announced. Thousands of his tribesmen are keeping a vigil beside the open coffin, in a garden near Mboya's sprawling single-story house in the suburb of Lavinton.
Some sat weeping. Others flung themselves to the ground beating the earth in despair. One man carrying a giant portrait of Mboya did a traditional death dance in the driveway of the house before the body arrived, then placed the portrait on the roof of the hearse.

ties in Communist China."
— In addition, up to 20,000 Chinese immigrants can come here each year "and this provides a means to send illegal agents into our nation." He said there are active Chinese Communist sympathizers in the Western Hemisphere in a position to aid in operations against this country.
— A growing problem concerns the 40,000 Hong Kong based Chinese seaman, many actually living on the China mainland. "We are aware of situations where they have served as couriers in intelligence operations."
On any given day, Hoover said, three-fourths of these crewmen are on ships around the world and about 27,000 are members of the Chinese Communist-dominated Hong Kong Seamen's Union.
"Although it is not necessary for a seaman to desert ship to perform an intelligence assignment," Hoover said, "it is noted that there were over 700 desertions by Chinese crewmen in the United States in fiscal 1967, and this accounted for more than 80 per cent of the total desertions by Chinese crewmen throughout the world during that year."

Bishop Calls For Aiding
the Poor

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Rt. Rev. Robert R. Brown, the Episcopal bishop of Arkansas, says Episcopalians should increase their efforts to aid the poor, but must not recognize or contribute to any group which "threatens the overthrow of government."
The Rev. Mr. Brown expressed opposition to the "Black Manifesto" of James Forman, which demands $50 million from churches and synagogues in the form of "reparations."
The Rev. Mr. Brown made his comments in a publication of the Arkansas Diocese, "The Arkansas Churchman."
"I join with the presiding bishop in the hope that the Episcopal Church will not only continue its present program but expand it," he said. "Our own black churchmen are being faced with almost overwhelming difficulties as they exercise their ministries, and desperately need all the support we can give them."
"There is no reason to panic and never any justification for exploding with hate," he said.

MARKED TREE, Ark. (AP) — Demolition experts from the Pine Bluff Arsenal Saturday night deactivated a bomb found earlier Saturday near Marked Tree.
The device consisted of 15 sticks of dynamite wired to an alarm clock. It was discovered in an open area about 1/2 mile south of U.S. 63 at Marked Tree by Jesse Carter, a tractor driver.
Sgt. Jim Wooten of the State Police said Sunday that the investigation is continuing. "We know of no logical reason for it to be out there," Wooten said.
Officers said the bomb was on property owned by Guy Prince. The dynamite was found near the east bank of the St. Francis

FBI Wants More Agents and Clerks

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has asked Congress for another 525 lawyers and accountants, and possibly a few linguists and chemists, to add to his corps of special agents.
Hoover also wants additional clerks, and if the friendly reception he got before a House appropriations subcommittee is an indication, the FBI's manpower will be increased this year to a record 17,345 employees.
Testimony released today of Hoover's appearance before the subcommittee last April 17 showed the FBI director asked for almost $233 million for fiscal 1970, a record budget supported by President Nixon.
The reason given for the $13.2 million increase—one of the few budget raises proposed by the new administration—was to beef up the FBI's drive against organized crime.
Chairman John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., said Hoover's presentation justified the FBI's request, and the nine other subcommittee members were also full of praise.

Even if the dynamite had blown a hole in the levee, flooding would not result because the river is below flood stage.

It's Your Hair, Men

For Men: Unless you're looking for a job in a rock 'n' roll combo, forget about way-out hair styles. Keep your hair trimmed, keep it clean, keep it combed. Shampoo at least once every week—or just as soon as your hair begins to get oily and dirty. Wet your hair and work up a good lather. Scrub hair and scalp with a brush or your finger tips, then rinse out all the suds.

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You can almost tell by your nose that next season's television series are going into production.

A Hollywood sound stage has as distinctive a smell as a bakery. It's the smell of fresh-cut lumber, of buckets of paint and glue.

You can smell the sets as soon as you walk through the big sound-proof doors into the cavernous stages.

At Universal, carpenters were busy putting together an elaborate, two-level operating arena for "The New Doctors" segment of "The Bold Ones" on NBC.

It may be the most elaborate and intricately detailed set for a series since the spaceship Enterprise was built at Paramount for "Star Trek" in 1965.

In fact, looking at a model of the set in art director John Lloyd's office you would almost think it was a spaceship. It has a glass-walled turret above the operating table for other doctors and students to observe the surgical procedures.

"Every piece of medical equipment on this set not only will be real, but it will be the latest available," Lloyd said. He said the operating room was partially modeled after Methodist Hospital in Houston, Tex.

How much does the set cost? "A lot more than a set for a series usually costs and a lot less than it would for a movie," he replied.

At Paramount's Gower Street studio the architecture is Spanish—both for the studio itself and inside where "Mission: Impossible" was being filmed.

It was the presidential palace of a Latin American dictator, and you can be sure that the Impossible Missions Team will do him in before the hour is up.

The cameraman was at the top of a tall stepladder filming the elaborate comings and goings in a corridor outside a code room. Leonard Nimoy, who is replacing Martin Landau in the show, was impersonating a Che Guevara type character and was almost unrecognizable.

On the backlot of CBS Studio Center you pick up more smells at "Gunsmoke"—that of horse flesh and, if you get close enough, leather.

The "Gunsmoke" crew was filming a picnic scene on a dusty location set under the hot California sun.

Until CBS took it over to produce its own series, the lot had been Republic Studios. Between takes Ken Curtis, who plays Festus Hagen, said, "I've spent a lot of time on this lot."

"I'm going into my seventh year with 'Gunsmoke,'" he said, "and after the war I did a few musical westerns with Big Boy Williams as my sidekick. You know the kind, right in the middle of the chase you stop and do a song."

A few minutes later the crew moved over to shoot in front of an old ranch house. Its weather-beaten look came from age, not from any set decorator's paint box.

Engagement Announced

Safety Tips For Outdoor Barbecuing

Man's favorite outdoor summer sport is barbecuing and, like any other type of cooking, technique plays a major role.

According to the Structo Barbecue Institute and the National Safety Council, proper safety precautions can spell the difference between an enjoyable meal and potential disaster. As with any flame or fire, these experts say, respect for the grill should always be present, even when preparing something easy to fix like hot dogs.

Don't grill in an area where children are playing. A careless child may inadvertently run into the grill, tip it over, and be severely burned.

If any part of grilling were to be branded as particularly dangerous, it's lighting the fire. Many tragedies and near tragedies are caused every year by carelessness in lighting charcoal, according to the National Safety Council.

Gasoline, because of its explosive nature, should be avoided along with any flammable material not expressly designed for barbecuing. Electric charcoal lighters should be handled with care; their elements, if stored in dampness, may short out when used.

Follow the directions on the lighter fluid container which always say to let the liquid soak into the charcoal before lighting to reduce the hazard of a flash flame. Do not under any circumstances add lighter fluid once the grill is going.

For handling food on the grill, it's a good idea to have long-handled tools, preferably tongs that are sturdy with fire-proof grips, spokesmen for the Structo Barbecue Institute maintain. A pair of heavy gloves will keep hands safe when it's necessary to handle some hot item.

A heavy apron to protect clothing from grease and sparks is a must for the chef. Roll up your sleeves and keep loose-fitting clothes away from the fire.

When cooking steaks that drip fat into the fire, a sprinkling bottle filled with water is helpful in curbing flames that can ruin a fine piece of meat.

Most outdoor chefs fail to realize the danger of charcoal fires which give off carbon monoxide. Charcoal should only be used outdoors or in well-ventilated indoor locations such as a fireplace with an open draft.

Controlled heat is the desire of every chef. And for best results for every type of outdoor recipe, according to the Barbecue Institute, a slow, even heat may be achieved by cooking with a minimum of charcoal. Cooking with a layer one briquette deep should be enough.

For greater heat control and fewer hazardous sparks, experts prefer a covered grill or a windbreak on the grill to protect the fire from strong drafts. The best control comes from a covered or kettle grill that traps the heat much like an oven. A covered grill eliminates sparks and flame-ups and also provides even heat at a constant temperature to retain natural juices while barbecuing.

After you have finished grilling, extinguish the live charcoal by dousing them with a panfull of water.

VELVET CLAWS NEED TRIMMING

Dear: My best friend is not a best friend any more since I lost 25 pounds and she didn't. I started trying to improve my looks, and now whenever we're in a mixed crowd at a party or such, she never falls with such remarks as, "I just LOVE your wig!" or "Doesn't May look GREAT in false eyelashes?" or "You're so lucky you can STILL wear those young styles."

Really, my hair piece is not conspicuous and if I want heavier eyelashes for evening it's my business. My clothes are conservative enough for my age (40) and my husband approves of them thoroughly.

Her latest is to say she won't lose weight because look how wrinkled it makes you look. And there goes my evening!

Am I over-sensitive or is there a hiss in her purr? Outside of getting hefty and unstylish again, how can I combat this? —DEFLATED MAY

A Lockheed spokesman said Sunday the system has been under study for two years and potential buyers of the L1011 have said they want it. The system probably will be offered as an option costing about $250,000, the company said.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

"DO AS WE SAY, NOT AS WE DO": Michigan survey reveals 13 per cent of students between 10 and 15 now smoke. More than half reported they started before age 12.

Some claimed they started at age 6. Fewer than half the schools were actively teaching the relationship between smoking and health. Perhaps the "I'll teach 'em myself" attitude of parents opposing sex education in public schools curls over into this vital health area. More than 70 per cent of those interviewed said their mothers, fathers or friends smoked though 95 per cent claimed their parents opposed the practice. KID STUFF? An English pediatrician reports puberty is steadily advancing, now arrives about three-tenths of a year earlier each decade. At one time the average age was 16. At the present rate the average in 50 years will be 11.

SNOW JOB: Artificial snow has for several years now been used on beginner's slopes in sparsely snowed-on resort areas. News from Japan is that a new plastic "snow" has been perfected. The material is sprayed on in layers over a special porous latex matting. The substance has some of the "packing" characteristics of slightly damp snow and can be easily roughened when it heads toward the "glare ice" feel. Machines spray on new powder in the same way that snow machines now do the job. Twenty-four-hour ski slopes are a reality. Bikini-clad skiers schussing into the surf are not out of sight of reality.

TURN-ON-TOUR ABOUT: An Evanston, Illinois high school is testing a drug education program which, if successful, will be incorporated into the regular curriculum. The three-part program begins with general information about marijuana, LSD, amphetamines, barbiturates, heroin and cocaine, emphasizing their physiological and behavioral effects. The second phase treats case histories of drug users, their rehabilitation and legal problems. The last phase simulates community drug crises. Students are given opportunity to "play" the decision makers — mayor, police chief, parent, etc. By confronting students with the drug problem under "controlled" conditions, administrators are hoping students will be better able to make their own "right" decisions if/when confronted by friends in the drug culture.

MAKING WAVES: Man-made waves for surfing are rolling in. Land-locked surfing is in the "pilot" stage with a multimillion dollar project at Big Surf near Phoenix, Arizona. Machinery pushes out three-to-five-foot waves the width of a huge man-made pond. A return system keeps the water flowing and going. Surfing compounds like Big Surf will include other recreational activities such as volleyball, paddle tennis, open air bowling and, of course, food concessions. Tacos and enchiladas are rumored to be riding the wave in the grazing and rinsing places.

The pennant race has passed them by, but Gary Waslewski and Dick Kelley have discovered the best way to kill time until another one comes along.

While the top teams in the National League slid backward Sunday, Montreal's Waslewski and San Diego's Kelley hurled one-hitters to salvage doubleheader splits for the lowly expansion clubs.

After Philadelphia trounced the Expos 13-2 in their opener, Waslewski zipped past the Phillies 5-0 in 96 minutes, facing the minimum 27 batters in the quickest major league game in two years.

Houston shaded San Diego 3-2 in the first game, but Kelley beat the Astros 1-0 in a 2:01 duel with Jack Billingham, who pitched hitless ball for 6 1/3 innings in his first 1969 start.

Elsewhere, St. Louis topped Chicago's East Division leaders twice, 4-2 and 6-3; San Francisco swept Atlanta's West Division pace-setters 3-1 and 5-0; the New York Mets downed Pittsburgh 8-7 to tighten the East race and Cincinnati drubbed Los Angeles 8-1 to further snarl the West chase.

In the American League, Detroit nipped Baltimore 5-4; Minnesota edged Oakland 7-6; Washington blanked Boston 5-0; New York topped Cleveland 4-2; Seattle bounced Kansas City 9-3 and California beat Chicago 2-1.

Waslewski, a former Boston World Series standout acquired by the Expos from the Cardinals last month, gave up a fifth-inning single by Rick Joseph and walked Deron Johnson in the eighth. Both baserunners were erased in double plays as the 27-year-old right-hander nailed his first victory of the season and first shutout in the majors.

He also produced his first two RBI in the majors with a seventh-inning double.

The Phillies shelved Bill Stoneman, who pitched an earlier no-hitter for Montreal, and two relievers for 13 runs in the first four innings of the opener and coasted behind rookie Billy Champion. Tony Taylor paced the winners' 16-hit assault with a triple and three singles.

Kelley, a 29-year-old southpaw picked up from Atlanta in the expansion draft, limited the Astros to fireworks and an infield hit by Denis Menke in the second inning, registering his first victory since June 4. Ed Spezio's pinch single delivered the game's only run with two out in the ninth.

Billingham, used exclusively in relief until Sunday, pitched perfect ball for five innings and allowed four hits in all, the first a two-out double by Ollie Brown in the seventh.

The Astros pulled out the opener when San Diego second baseman Jose Arcia let Doug Rader's bases-loaded grounder get past him for an error in the eighth, allowing the tying and winning runs to score.

veteran Bill White scored three runs and rookie Steve Huntz knocked in two with a bases-loaded single as the Cardinals tripped the Cubs in their opener. Steve Carlton, 10-5, had a shutout going until the ninth, when he needed relief help from Joe Hoerner.

Mike Shannon's three-run homer, a two-run walkoff by Joe Torre and rookie Chuck Taylor's two-hit relief pitching over the final 6 1/3 innings keyed the second game victory, which reduced the Cubs' margin over second place New York to five games.

Bobby Bonds provided the power with a two-run homer in each game as the Giants staggered the Braves behind Juan Marichal's five-hit pitching in the opener and Gaylord Perry's four-hitter in the nightcap.

The double setback left Atlanta one-half game up on second place Los Angeles, 3 1/2 ahead of the Giants and four in front of the fourth place Reds.

Dunn Clendenon, a former Pirate, drove in four runs with a homer and double, leading the Mets past Pittsburgh for their fifth straight victory.

Clay Carroll, Cincinnati's bullpen ace, made the most of his first 1969 starting assignment, holding the Dodgers in check for 7 2/3 innings before tiring. AL

Dave Hill Winner of Buick Open

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Dave Hill is playing golf less and enjoying it more.

The reduced schedule has "helped my confidence, helped my game, helped my golf and helped my family life. The kids don't have to peep around corners to find out what's going on," Hill said Sunday after making the Buick Open his second tour victory of the season.

And he paid tribute to his wife, Virginia, for the new outlook.

My wife had been telling me for years that I'd been working too hard at it," the darkly handsome, outspoken character said. "I'd been playing golf, either playing or practicing for nine years. Every day. Didn't miss a day."

"But I didn't pay any attention to her. What did she know?" "But after the last tournament last year I was a wreck, mentally, physically, emotionally. So I gave my clubs to a neighbor and he locked 'em up in his garage. Wouldn't give them to me no matter what. I didn't play for two months."

"And I came back this year playing like I'd dreamed of playing."

The figures bear him out. He's now earned over $98,000 this year, second only to Gene Littler, is one of five multiple winners this year, has been in the top 10 in five of his last seven tournaments and in the top 10 eight times this year.

And he came into the $125,000 Buick Open with only one start — the U.S. Open — since he'd won the Memphis Open title about five weeks ago.

He'd taken the time off to investigate a weight loss, he'd dropped 25 pounds to 140 since the first of the year, and found it was nerves. So he increased his smoking to about two packs a day.

"It helps calm me down," he said. "It works."

He went through almost three packs during the long haul of 36 holes in Sunday's double round, made necessary when Friday's play was washed out by a thunderstorm.

He finished two strokes ahead of Frank Beard, who had a closing 71 for 279. Romero Blancas, twice tied for the lead but the victim of a double bogey on the finishing hole, had a 72 for 280 and third place.

He was followed by Dan Sikes, 71 for 281, and Terry Dill, 71 for 282.

Hill, 32, an 11-year veteran and a refugee from the caddy ranks, is a bluntly spoken character whose pronouncements have put him in occasional trouble with the PGA. He was suspended for a week earlier this year and has a total of two months and one week of suspensions.

British Open Favorite Sick in Bed

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (AP) — George Archer, U.S. Masters champion, was confined to bed today with an attack of gastroenteritis and a cold — only 48 hours before the start of the British Open golf championship.

"I had set my heart on winning this championship," Archer said. "It looks as though I shall have to go into the first round without having had much chance to study the course."

"I've been running a temperature and just aching all over. The doctor has given me a couple of shots and put me on pills. I said I would like to get in a couple of practice rounds, but the doc told me to stay in bed until he gave the all-clear."

Archer is one of the favorites in the field of 130 star golfers from all over the world shooting for the crown first competed for 109 years ago.

Seattle in 9-3 Romp Over Twins

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Seattle Pilots had fate on their side, which isn't bad if you can't have ... say ... Harmon Killebrew. The Minnesota Twins had Killebrew working for them and the way he hits the ball, well, who needs fate?

The Pilots lost two of their starters on first inning injuries against Kansas City Sunday, but replacements Don Mincher and Steve Hovley each delivered three hits in Seattle's 9-3 romp over Minnesota.

Killebrew, leading the majors in runs batted in, clouted a two-run homer that capped a five-run Minnesota rally in the seventh inning and carried the Twins to a 7-6 victory over Oakland.

Both were important victories with Seattle hanging on to third place in the American League's West Division and Minnesota completing a three game sweep of the Athletics to take over first place in the West.

Elsewhere Sunday, Washington shut out Boston 5-0, New York trimmed Cleveland 4-2, Detroit edged Baltimore 5-4 and California nipped Chicago 2-1.

In the National League, New York topped Pittsburgh 8-7, Cincinnati bombed Los Angeles 8-1, San Francisco swept a doubleheader from Atlanta 3-1 and 5-0, St. Louis took a pair from Chicago 4-2 and 6-3 and Houston split a doubleheader with San Diego, winning the opener 3-2 and dropping the second game 1-0.

Seattle regularly platoons Mincher at first base with Mike Hegan, and with left-hander Bill Butler working for Kansas City it was Mincher's turn to sit. But Hegan pulled a leg muscle running out a first inning grounder, and when the Pilots took the field Mincher was the first baseman.

The big guy promptly tossed the lefty-righty strategy for a long loss by tagging two towering 400-foot homers and a double to drive in four runs.

Meanwhile, Tommy Harper, Seattle's center fielder, ran into the fence chasing Mike Flore's fly in the first, and it took five stitches to close the cut over his right eye. Hovley took over and delivered three straight hits, scoring one run and driving in another.

Killebrew unloaded his 23rd homer of the year, boosting his RBI total to 82, as the Twins caught the Athletics with a seventh-inning rally.

Oakland had hopped into a 6-2 lead, three of the runs scoring on Danny Cater's homer. But Minnesota bounced back in the seventh. Leo Cardenas was hit by a pitch and came around on a wild pitch and Cesar Tovar's single. Graig Nettles walked and a pair of infield outs and Tony Oliva's single drove two more in before Killebrew connected.

The three-game sweep moved the Twins two games ahead of Oakland in the West Division race.

Denny McLain became the American League's first 13-game winner as Detroit hung on to beat Baltimore. Consecutive fifth-inning homers by Dick McAuliffe and Tom Tresh broke a tie and headed the Tigers toward their fifth victory in the last six games.

Boog Powell walloped a 500-foot homer and Elrod Hendricks also connected for the Orioles, who lost their fourth game in the last five but still lead the American League East by 10 games.

Bubba Morton rapped a two-run homer to give California its victory over Chicago. Tom Murphy earned the triumph with a four-hitter, besting Tommy John in a pitcher's duel.

Bobby Murcer doubled two runs home and then scored the winner on Joe Pepitone's single as New York nipped Cleveland, Mel Stottlemyre went the distance for his 12th victory.

Dick Bosman scattered seven hits and Del Unser drove in three runs with a pair of hits as Washington whipped Boston, Bosman, 6-2, who pitched only his second complete game of the season, also rove in a run with an eight-inning single.

chance to study the course.

"I've been running a temperature and just aching all over. The doctor has given me a couple of shots and put me on pills. I said I would like to get in a couple of practice rounds, but the doc told me to stay in bed until he gave the all-clear."

Meredith Is Retiring From Football

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
DALLAS (AP) — The Cotton Bowl won't seem the same this autumn without the Dandy Man, swashbuckling hero to some and butter-fingered villain to others, calling the shots on the playing field.

Don Meredith announced his retirement from professional football Saturday. For 12 years he was THE quarterback in this football mad town — three years at Southern Methodist and nine with the Dallas Cowboys.

He quit at the age of 31 — in his prime as a National Football League quarterback. Only last year he rated as the second best quarterback in the NFL statistically.

The anti-Meredith faction took him apart at every opportunity. They claimed he "choked" in the big games. Anything that went wrong with the Cowboys was Meredith's fault, they claimed, including the narrow NFL championship losses to Green Bay.

He was the target of boos and obscenities. Meredith said he didn't pay attention to the fans, but it had to hurt. It bothered his wife, Cheryl.

The pro-Meredith faction — and there were many supporters — included Vince Lombardi, now coach at Washington, who said Meredith would be one of the "great" quarterbacks in the NFL.

Coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys said that on a given day Meredith could be "hotter" than any quarterback in the game.

"When he was on, just look out," Landry said.

But Meredith also had his cold streaks. He was inconsistent, and at times his sideline passes looked like wounded geese flopping to the ground.

Part of his inconsistency stemmed from his many injuries. He played with broken noses, sore arms, busted ribs, and torn knees. But Meredith never begged off.

But the championship losses to Green Bay and last year to Cleveland were crushing blows to Meredith's pride.

"I just don't feel like giving 100 per cent anymore," Meredith said.

And for No. 17 that would have been blasphemous. He never played the game with anything less than zest and vigor.

Even the boo birds will give him that.

CBC, James Motors, and Sheriff's posted victories in Little League Play Thursday Night at K-Park.

In a real close contest James Motors edged out a 7 to 6 win over Barry's. Behind 5 runs, James Motors rallied in the fourth to go ahead, but Barry's was threatening in the bottom of the sixth when the final out was made.

Hope Auto gave CBC a real battle before losing 6 to 5. Tom Johnson added another home run to his credit with a blast over CF fence. The game was called at the end of the fifth due to the time limit placed on the games.

In the last game of the evening, Sheriff's poured it on Lion's beating them 21 to 11.

Wimbledon Doesn't Get Any Easier

By ROBERT JONES
WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The Wimbledon tennis championships have always been a test of endurance as well as of tennis ability, but never so much as this year. And they don't promise to get much easier.

By the time Rod Laver of Australia had beaten John Newcombe of Australia 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 Saturday for the men's singles title, no less than 28 sets in the men's singles had gone 20 games or more.

The men's singles and doubles all run to the best-of-five sets, and there were no 10 minute breaks halfway through, as in most big tournaments.

But despite the no-break rule, the long matches meant a lot of games were played in falling light on near-deserted courts, and a number of matches had to be halted in the evening and restarted the next morning.

And then there is the sudden leap upwards in the general standards of play since the gates were opened to professionals last year.

Ken Rosewall, who returned to Wimbledon last year after 11 years in the pro ranks, called the competition in this year's championships twice as good as it was in the mid-1950s.

"In my amateur days, plenty of countries had one good player," he said. "Now they have several — with plenty of youngsters coming along."

"This means you don't get the easy matches all the time — and it's certainly an endurance test to reach the latter rounds."

Pancho Gonzales, 41, who turned pro before he had won a Wimbledon title, echoed Rosewall with a lot more feeling after struggling through the tie to win longest match ever seen at Wimbledon, 112 games, against Charles Pasarell of the United States in the first round, he match had to be halted in twilight and continued the next morning, and Gonzales complained bitterly.

Hope Auto gave CBC a real battle before losing 6 to 5. Tom Johnson added another home run to his credit with a blast over CF fence. The game was called at the end of the fifth due to the time limit placed on the games.

In the last game of the evening, Sheriff's poured it on Lion's beating them 21 to 11.

With the standard so high, and the matches likely to go on so long, why don't they do something about it?" he asked.

"Why do they have start at 2 p.m. — why can't they start at mid-day and put a limit on the time the last matches start in the evenings?" "At least that would mean matches would be able to finish in decent light, and no one would have to play on when they couldn't see the ball properly."

Tournament referee Capt. Mike Gibson conceded that Gonzales had a good point.

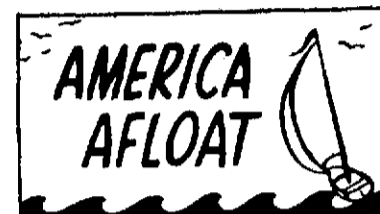

"We'll have to think hard about the starting time," he said. "At the moment, we start at 2 p.m. because it gives the ground staff more time to spruce the place up and get everything ready. And it's a throwback to the old days when people would do a morning's work in the city, then pop out to Wimbledon to see an afternoon's tennis."

"We know those days are gone, of course. We like a bit of tradition here, but you can't be ruled by tradition and maybe we'll have to alter our ideas somewhere."

Top Knight Only 4th in Lamplighter

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Futurity, Champagne, Flamingo and Florida Derby were the races of wine and roses for Top Knight. But the Lamplighter Handicap was just another flat, withered performance that leaves his ability and future in question.

Mrs. Stephen B. Wilson's Vertex Colt, making his first start since the Preakness, finished fourth in the $27,750 Lamplighter at Monmouth Park. And he was a badly beaten fourth, never being in contention and finishing 11 lengths back of Al Hat-tab in the 1 1/16-mile race for 3-year-olds.

Victories in the Futurity and Champagne were among those that made Top Knight the 2-year-old champion of 1968, and then he scored in the Flamingo and Florida Derby to become one of the prime favorites in the Kentucky Derby.

But he finished fifth in the Derby, then fourth in the Preakness. And now the Lamplighter. What next for Top Knight?

Al Hat-tab, owned by Pelican Stable and ridden by Ray Broussard, carried 124 pounds, one less than topweighted Top Knight, to a four-length victory over Prime Fool, with Mr. Leader third. He was timed in 1:42 for a winning mutual payoff of $8.20.

In three $50,000-added races Saturday, Noholme Jr. upset Tell in the Cinema Handicap for 3-year-olds at Hollywood Park, Larceny Kid won the Round Table Handicap for 3-year-olds at Arlington Park and Symona II scored in the Sheepshead Bay Handicap at Aqueduct.

Getting an 11-pound weight advantage from Tell, high-weighted at 128 pounds, Noholme Jr. caught him in the stretch and beat him by a head in the Cinema. Makor, Tell's stablemate, was third.

Noholme Jr., owned by Buddy Fogelson and his actress wife, Greer Garson, covered the 1 1/8 miles in 1:48 2-5 in handling Tell his first defeat in five races on the grass. The winner, ridden by Laffit Pincay, paid $12.60.

Charles W. Engelhard's Larceny kid, ridden by David Whitely, covered 1 1/16 miles on the turf in :43 2-5 to win the Round Table over favored North Flight, with Fleet Allied third. Toting 112 pounds, 10 less than the highweighted North Flight, Larceny Kid paid $23.80 in winning his first start on the grass.

Symona II, carrying 109 pounds including Jorge Velasquez, was first in a three-horse photo finish with Harem Lady and Swiss Cheese in making the Sheepshead Bay her first stakes victory for owner Gustave Ring.

Symona II stepped the 1 3/16 miles on the grass in 1:55 4-5 for a return of $25.40. Happy Hill Farm's Ludham, who won the Sheepshead in 1968 and was topweighted at 122 pounds, finished seventh.

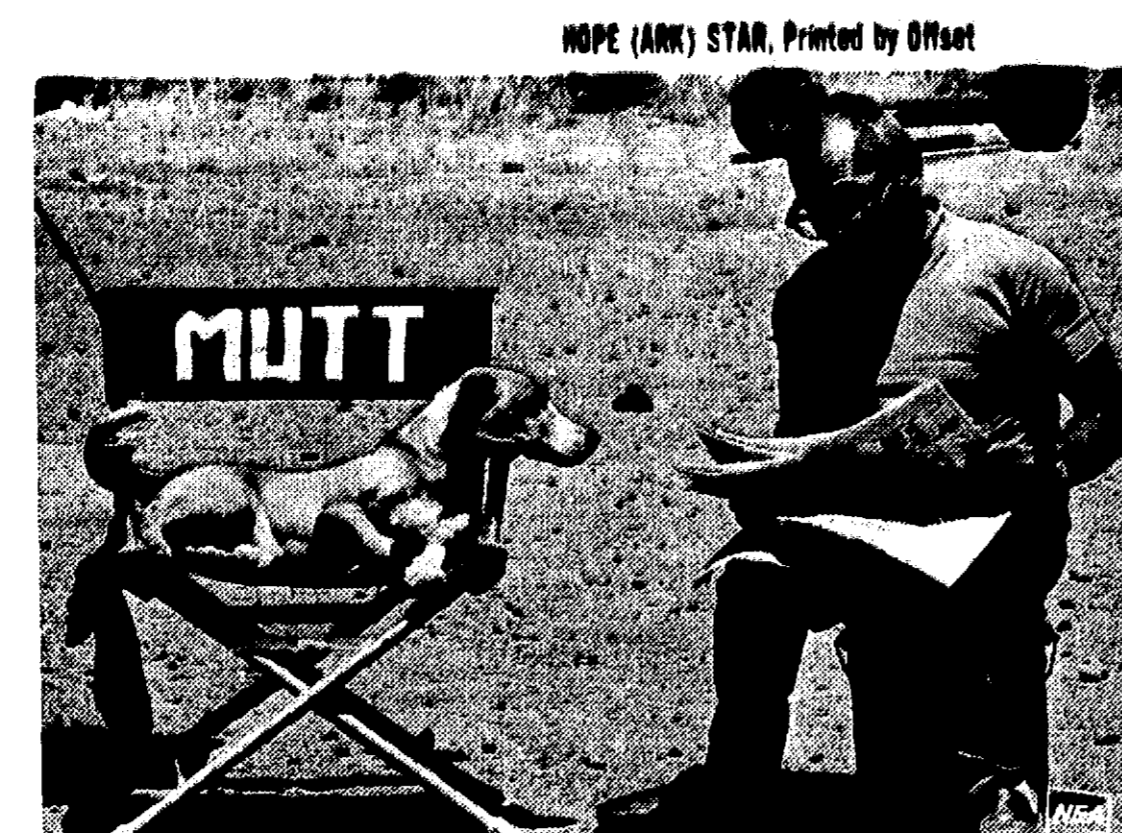

Memorial Day—then called Decoration Day—was first formally observed in memory of the Union dead of the Civil War in 1868.

"WHAT ARE THEY SAYING ABOUT ME IN SHEBOYGAN?" Just a month ago, "Mutt" was the happy and completely anonymous pet of movie dog trainer Ernie Smith, right. Today, he is the canine star of a western film, sharing the spotlight with such as Lee Marvin, Jeanne Moreau and Jack Palance. That's show biz.

Soviet Naval Group Plans Cuban Visit

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet naval squadron will visit Cuba July 20-27 at the invitation of Havana, the official Soviet news agency Tass announced today. Western military experts said it would be the closest visit to the United States ever by Soviet warships.

The brief Tass announcement said the squadron would consist of a rocket-carrying cruiser, two submarines, a tender and a tanker. Tass said the ships now are making a training cruise in the central Atlantic.

The appearance of Soviet warships in Cuba, 90 miles from the United States, seemed intended to back up the Soviet Union's claim that it is now a world naval power. Western observers also speculated it might be intended as a form of retaliation for President Nixon's planned visit to Romania in August.

Constitutional Convention in 7th Week

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The seventh week of the state Constitutional Convention begins Tuesday and the delegates have yet to vote on three controversial issues.

All three of the issues—parimutuel betting, usury and the right-to-work law—have received favorable recommendations from committees, and are likely to be voted on this week. The proposals are almost identical to provisions in the 1874 constitution.

Several persons say the chances of any new constitution being approved will be improved if the three issues are removed separately from the main document. The parimutuel betting proposal legalizes horse racing at Hot Springs and dog racing at West Memphis. A 10 per cent maximum interest rate is established by the usury provision. The right-to-work law prevents union membership from being a condition of employment.

Labor leaders oppose the right-to-work law and bankers and economists say the General Assembly should set the interest rate.

Last week, the delegates approved a proposal making it mandatory that the General Assembly and its committees meet in public at all times. A proposal requiring a 60 per

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It is assumed there will be less people to greet the Apollo 11 astronauts when they land on the moon than there was to congratulate Bobby Unser after winning the 1968 Indianapolis 500.

But the astronauts and the race car driver will be decked out for the occasion in similar togery. The outer layer of the space suits and Unser's racing suit are woven from Fiberglas Beta yarns, a flexible, noncombustible glass fiber.

In this year's Indy 500, Unser, Roger McCluskey and Lloyd Ruby were dressed, almost literally, to the teeth in this uniform. The suit is the ultimate in fire precaution habiliments. The invention was spurred by the fire in 1967 which killed three astronauts during tests at Cape Kennedy.

Ten days after the disaster, NASA contracted the Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. to develop a safer, noncombustible space suit. The result so pleased Gordon Cooper, astronaut and race car enthusiast, that he wanted to wear it to race at Indianapolis. His superiors said, sure, he could wear the uniform—to the supermarket, to the theater, to cookouts. But not to race. They refused to take a chance of injury on hair-pin turns.

Cruising around the moon is one thing but, goodness gracious, peeling around the Indy Raceway is strictly for nutballs. The Fiber Glass suit resists temperatures up to 1300 degrees, as opposed to the more conventional suits which can withstand flames and heat up to only 600 degrees. This doesn't mean that now when fire rages in a capsule or a car that those entrapped can sit around and play solitaire.

Rather, the improved suit provides an extra few seconds for escape.

Longjohns that astronauts wear may also be used soon by race car drivers. A liquid cooling garment is worn next to the bodies of the astronauts for increased comfort. It is an apparatus with connecting tubes which must be plugged in.

Ed Cobb, head of the scientific program for Owens-Corning, said, "Liquid cooling garments could revolutionize auto racing. Now, it's nothing definite, but I'm just imagining—you know, projecting. But the cooler race car drivers are, the greater the chance to use hotter and more sophisticated fuels in the cars."

In the Apollo 11 space capsule, many instruments and other accessories are lined with Fiberglas Beta. A possibility also exists that race car interiors could be coated in the same way.

Their use is expanding in other ways. In the home, drapes and bed spreads are being made with the product.

In sports, fiber glass is already indispensable in poles for vaulting, surf boards, water and snow skis, racing boats, snowmobiles, batting helmets, golf clubs, archery equipment, indoor pitching mounds and, even, to line sports stadiums to cut down noise.

But it is in the space and race car apparel that the product is employed most dramatically. Which brings up another element of caution: Don't throw stones at people who live in glass suits.

Rockefeller to Report to President

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller completed a 38,731-mile Latin-American survey for the Nixon administration Sunday and is expected to give the President his recommendations on a new policy next month.

Informants said President Nixon may unveil a new policy during a Latin-American economic conference in October.

The Rockefeller report will cover impressions and opinions gathered by the New York governor and 23 experts accompanying him to 20 nations, ranging from Brazil, larger than the continental United States, to the microstate of Barbados, smaller than the city of Los Angeles.

Besides his policy recommendations, Rockefeller also is expected to urge setting up special government machinery to implement the new Latin-American policy and make it viable. Some aspects may require congressional approval.

During his trip, Rockefeller emphasized a belief that the Alliance for Progress failed to achieve many of its goals because the machinery necessary to push it through was never created and laws and regulations blocking alliance goals were never eliminated.

Two members of Rockefeller's advisory staff said Latin Americans were partly to blame for the alliance's shortcomings. They said many Latin nations reacted too slowly or not at all to creating complementary planning and development boards to see alliance projects through.

But at the same time the Rockefeller mission provided clear indications that the new policy will incorporate some, if not most of the alliance's principles and objectives.

Rockefeller started his tour critical of the Kennedy program for Latin America, but he appreciably altered his statements toward the end.

"The objectives of the alliance have been accepted universally in almost all countries as very interesting and important goals for peoples of American countries," he told one news conference.

"There have been frustrations because we could not fulfill the promises, and therefore what is important is to analyze why it was so and how we can change things so as to advance in fulfillment of these objectives."

Rockefeller's recommendations are expected to cover, among other things:

1. Protectionist U.S. trade policies that Latin Americans claim are curbing their export potential.

2. Elimination of conditions to U.S. aid, such as the requirement that aid funds be spent in the United States. The governor said these conditions amounted to a subsidy for U.S. exports.

3. The drain on Latin-American foreign exchange reserves through unfavorable trade balances and loan repayments. Brazil alone will pay $500 million this year in principal and interest on foreign debts. This is almost as much as the U.S. has apportioned in aid funds for Latin America this year.

Girl Lost Two Days Found Safe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 9-year-old girl lost for two days among the giant trees of Sequoia National Park is home in excellent condition, and with advice on scaring bears.

Irene Hofke wandered from her family's campsite Thursday and was found two miles away Saturday night.

"I wasn't hungry at all," she told newsmen. "I was just hot from walking and got really thirsty." She said she drank from streams.

Afraid? "No, I knew my mother would call the ranger because she gets real worried."

The one troubling moment: "I saw this bear coming straight at me—a big, fat bear. I started yelling and shaking a tree, and he left."

Consumers Not Protected by Federal Stamp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has suppressed its own critical reports of meat-processing plants and is failing to push for compliance with meat inspection laws, says consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin—spokesmen said Sunday it had not been received—Nader hit strongly at the Department's consumer and Marketing Service and its chief, Dr. Robert K. Somers.

Nader said Somers has in his possession a report written five weeks ago saying some 150 meat-processing plants are currently marking meat with a federal stamp and shipping it across state lines even though none of the plants inspected passed federal standards.

"This means the law is being violated, that consumers are being misled by the federal stamp and that the Department has not been doing its job," Nader said. "Yet Dr. Somers keeps the report secret."

Nader said Somers' division has failed to insure the states will comply with the Wholesome Meat Act of 1967 by the December 1969 deadline. The act seeks inspection practices at least as tough as federal standards.

Nader said the Agriculture Department is generally "far more solicitous of packer protection than it is consumer protection."

Brooklyn was incorporated with New York City in 1898.

YOUR PERSONAL FINANCE

By CARLTON SMITH and RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT

You've accumulated some surplus savings, and you begin wondering whether your money shouldn't be working a little harder—earning more than it does just sitting there. You begin, probably, thinking about the possibilities of higher returns offered by stock or mutual funds.

If you're an about-to-be investor, or an occasional investor, you'd do well to take a critical look at yourself and determine your risk-aversion factor. It has a lot to do with your investment behavior and your success in timing investment decisions.

"The Stock Trader's Almanac & Record" is an annual publication that serves Wall Streeters somewhat as the "Farmer's Almanac" does their rural brethren. Its canny tips on how to read the weather signs in the market offer pointers on when to sow and when to reap. But will you sow when the weather signs say you should?

That's where risk-aversion becomes a factor, says the Almanac. Citing a book by broker Jack J. Hayden, "What Makes You a Winner or a Loser in the Market?" it points out that "all investors can be classified according to how much risk they ordinarily will assume." And if you have a very high aversion to assuming risk, maybe you should just stay out of the market—because you'll miss the boat much of the time. Here's why:

The market has been in a decline. Investor climate is generally gloomy. Nobody's buying—but we all know the market is a succession of ups and downs, and we're awaiting signs of the upturn that's certain to come sooner or later.

At the first hopeful signs, the earliest buyers will be "those whose risk-aversion is practically nil"—the professional short-term traders. After them, says the Almanac, come "the optimists with slight aversion to risk. They are gradually followed by those with stronger aversion to risk, who wait until their optimism is sufficient to bring them to an emotional decision."

By now there's a bull market in full swing, pockets are bulging with profits, investors are riding high and happy. It's all so wonderful that it finally overcomes the caution and timidity of "the highest class of risk-averse" who must have very unrealistic expectations to push them across their psychological thresholds.

The unrealistic expectations that finally move them? They expect prices to go higher and higher—that

Jim: "Why are you putting this old safety-play hand in the column? Everyone has been writing about it for years."

Oswald: "You're right. As a matter of fact, it was old when I was a boy. However, there is a reason for it. We might devote most of this week to a discussion of safety plays as distinguished from unsafety plays."

Jim: "An unsafety play occurs when you make a safety play in one suit that leaves you wide open somewhere else. Right?"

Oswald: "South places the final contract in no-trump because he can count 12 tricks in no-trump just as easily as in hearts once North shows one king."

Jim: "Playing at six no-trump or six hearts, South's one problem is to avoid the loss of two heart tricks. He is not going to be able to do that if West holds the king, jack and at least one spot card, but he has a standard safety play to ensure his contract against any other combination."

"That standard safety play is to lay down his ace. If he drops either the king or jack under the ace, he has no further problem. If neither honor falls, he goes over to dummy and leads the nine. This will effectively take care of all cases other than the ones that could not be handled by any method. Even four to the king-jack in the East hand won't bother him, since in that case West would have shown out on the first lead."

Oswald: "This time the safety play yields a nice bonus. West drops the king, whereupon South finesses against East's jack and makes seven."

THE WELL CHILD
Wide Age Variation In Menstruation Start
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—My daughter, 15, has not begun to menstruate. Is this abnormal? Should anything be done?

A—There is a wide variation in the age at which girls start to menstruate. Many do not start until they are 16. This in no way affects their ability to have children later. If your daughter has not started to menstruate by the time she is 17, she should be examined for evidence of a glandular deficiency.

Q—My daughter, 15, has had severe cramps and nausea with her periods for the last three years. The doctor gave her some pills to take but these have not helped. What do you advise?

A—Menstrual discomfort or dysmenorrhea is very common. In most cases aspirin is helpful. Edrisal, a prescription drug, is a little stronger and may be needed in some cases. Girls who are athletically inclined and those who have been taught to look upon menstruation as a normal physiological process rather than a "curse," seem to have less of this sort of trouble than the others. In any case, the discomfort will gradually decrease over the years.

Q—Our son, 17, recently had a partial collapse of his left lung while playing football. After recovery, the doctor said he could play football again. A few months later, the collapse recurred. The doctor said it was due to overwork and that the next time it would be necessary to operate. Our son has chest pains whenever he overexerts. Shouldn't he be restricted in his work and play?

A—In some persons the walls of the small air sacs near the outer surface of the lungs are weak and a fit of coughing, sneezing or straining may cause a blowout, accompanied by a partial collapse of the lung. The victim should avoid the strains that precipitate a collapse but, if he has three spontaneous attacks, an operation to remove the weak spot is advisable.

Q—What is a greenstick fracture? What treatment is best?

A—This is an incomplete break that is split along only one side of a long bone—like trying to break a sapling over your knee. It is seen only in children. The only treatment required is rest—no weight bearing if a leg and a sling if an arm is involved—for four or five weeks.

Before Run on Tennessee River

Our column has been intermittent for the last week, so it shouldn't surprise you when we announce it will be omitted entirely this week. When you read this the editor and a couple of Hope boys should be starting on a cruise of the Tennessee River with another boat carrying friends and their families from Jackson Miss., and Memphis.

With the editor are Mike Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Dan Jones; and Stan James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim James. We left Hope about 4 a.m. Sunday and were scheduled to meet the other parties Sunday afternoon at the Pickwick Dam, 110 miles east of Memphis.

Taking off Monday morning downstream in the direction of Paducah, Ky., we expect to spend one week cruising Kentucky and Barkley Lakes, returning to Pickwick Dam and arriving home Monday, July 14.

This is about a 500-mile water haul, covering the lower end of the Tennessee River almost to its confluence with the Ohio, and at Barkley Lake we will be on the waters of the Cumberland River.

The idea didn't originate with me. A year ago returning from Florida I stopped over in Jackson, Miss., to visit Clarence Champman, who sold The Star its big press, and Chapman told me of the trip he and two other Jackson boating families made upstream on the Tennessee in 1968. If you are a good listener you get invited places, and so I was committed to making this year's trip downstream on the Tennessee.

With the Chapman family this year are Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Watkins and family of Memphis.

It takes considerable preparation for an excursion of this length on the water. One of the first things I did was to buy a navigation map of the Tennessee from the Army Corps of Engineers at Nashville, Tenn. This is a book of strip maps averaging about 8 river miles to the page, locating the channel, marine service stations, motels, and the like.

One of the historic sites we'll see is the Shiloh battlefield memorial, close to the launching scene at Pickwick Dam.

There'll be pictures, of course, and subscribers will get a look at them soon after our return.

584 Deaths on July 4 Holiday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Traffic accidents killed 584 persons over the holiday weekend, more than on any other three-day Fourth of July holiday period.

The death toll surpassed the old three-day record of 576, set in 1966. It fell far short of the all-time Fourth of July record of 732, set in 1967 when the holiday was four days long.

An Associated Press survey taken two weeks ago on a non-holiday weekend counted 435 traffic fatalities.

Last weekend's count, which extended from 6 p.m. Thursday to midnight Sunday, confirmed the National Safety Council's prediction that between 550 and 650 would die on the highways.

Search on for Prisoner Who Hit Sheriff

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP) — A manhunt was underway early today for a prisoner who overpowered Lawrence County Sheriff Kenneth Guthrie and escaped the county jail at Walnut Ridge.

Guthrie was hospitalized with cuts and lacerations and possible rib and back injuries he received in the struggle with David Allen Jackson, 19, who escaped, officers said.

Jackson, who was arrested Thursday on charges of desertion from the Army and auto theft, escaped when the sheriff opened a cell to feed him Sunday afternoon.

Guthrie said Jackson struck him with a soda bottle, knocking him to the floor. The sheriff said the struggle continued as Jackson made his way out of the building and ended when Guthrie collapsed in the driveway of the jail.

Jackson was believed to have stolen a pickup truck about a block from the jail. The truck was later spotted at a truck-stop at Hardy. There was no sign of Jackson.

Guthrie said he and seven inmates were the only persons in the building at the time of the escape. Two other inmates declined to help the sheriff subdue Jackson, he said.

Guthrie said he was unarmed at the time of the escape.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has been called in on the case, Guthrie said.

FBI's J. Edgar Hoover Says Red China Counts U.S. as No. 1 Enemy

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist China has singled out the United States as its No. 1 enemy and is working to tap needed scientific information here by any means, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says.

"The potent threat to our national security posed by Red China still exists," is the way Hoover phrased it. "In fact, the blatant, belligerent and illogical statements made by Red China's spokesmen during the past year leave no doubt that the United States is Communist China's No. 1 enemy."

Hoover's warning was delivered behind closed doors last April to a House Appropriations subcommittee. His testimony was released today.

"This bitterness towards the United States and other Western countries—even the Soviet Union—is a factor in Red China's ambition to equal other major powers economically, militarily and, especially, in scientific endeavors," Hoover said.

This goal, Hoover said, has resulted in Chinese Communist intelligence activities here—overt as well as covert—to get needed material, particularly in the scientific field.

The FBI chief said one clandestine effort was thwarted in 1967 when an effort was made to send electronic equipment to Hong Kong by way of Canada.

Hoover said informants have made "deep penetrations in intelligence operations" in this country by communist countries, particularly the Soviet Union, Cuba and Red China.

But, without specifying which countries, Hoover said these Communist intelligence services also try to penetrate his own FBI, the CIA, State and Defense Departments. He didn't mention the degree of success.

Turning to Communist China, Hoover said:

"Red China has been flooding the country with its propaganda and there are over 300,000 Chinese in the United States, some of whom could be susceptible to recruitment either through ethnic ties or hostile situations because of racial discrimination."

14 Persons Killed in Air Crash

MONROE, Ga. (AP) — A twin-engine Air South commuter airplane with 14 persons aboard crashed and exploded in a swampy area Sunday night and there were no known survivors, the Federal Aviation Agency said today.

FAA Duty Officer George Collier said the plane was on an instrument flight when it crashed about 9:20 p.m. about five miles west of Monroe. The plane, flight 168, had left Atlanta 28 minutes earlier.

Robert Dick, vice president of Air South, said the plane was on a regularly scheduled flight from Atlanta to Greenville, Spartanburg and Sumter, S.C. It carried 12 passengers in addition to the pilot and copilot, he said.

The plane was a twin-engine turbojet Beechcraft known as a Beech 99 airliner with a capacity of 17 persons, Dick said. He added the plane was less than a year old.

"We have no idea what happened," Dick said. "I'd hesitate to say one way or the other. This is our first accident."

Walton County Sheriff Franklin Thornton said the plane crashed in good weather with clear skies and no wind. He said it struck about 20 feet from an abandoned house but the house was not destroyed.

"It just covered the top with debris," the sheriff said. Thornton said wreckage was scattered over an acre and a half and that there were only small pieces left of the aircraft.

There were no witnesses to the accident but the sheriff said residents heard the plane just before it struck the ground in a pasture.

"It was running terribly low and the engines were wide open," the sheriff said.

The sheriff said the airplane did not burn although there was fuel spilled on the ground.

33 Known Dead in Lake Erie Storm

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The death toll climbed to at least 33 today as searches continued for more victims of storms that pounded northern Ohio and Lake Erie Friday night and the floods that followed. At least five persons were missing.

Floodwaters were reported receding in nearly all the affected areas, but emergencies remained in Norwalk and Wooster and the lakefront town of Vermilion.

The latest confirmed dead included three members of a family whose house trailer was swept away by flooded Apple Creek at Wooster, three unidentified persons who drowned when a boat overturned at Wooster and a woman whose car was swept away by flood waters at Kidron in Wayne County.

An infant in the overturned boat and two Wooster policemen were among the missing. A milk truck driver was reported missing in Ashland County and a Sandusky man swept from a bridge Saturday also was being sought.

The U.S. Coast Guard said nearly 200 holiday boaters still were accounted for, but they were expected to report in safely. A spokesman said it was probable that they had made shore safely, but had not reported because of poor communications. Telephone service was disrupted by the storms.

Gov. James A. Rhodes formally requested federal aid for 14 northern Ohio counties ravaged by the storms and flooding.

More Humid Weather for State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
More hot, humid weather is expected to continue over Arkansas through Tuesday.

Temperatures are expected to reach 96 to 101 as a result of a high pressure ridge from the Atlantic which has controlled Arkansas' and most of the South's weather for the last few days.

The high Sunday was 99 at Texarkana. El Dorado broke a 12-day run of 100-degree readings with a maximum reading of 97.

Moderate winds, clouds and a few showers caused the slightly lower temperatures over the state Sunday.

The forecast calls for widely scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers through Tuesday. Low tonight should be in the 70s and low 80s.

Overnight lows included 72 at Fayetteville, 75 at Harrison, 76 at Fort Smith, 95 at Memphis, 76 at Jonesboro, 79 at El Dorado, 75 at Little Rock, and 77 at Pine Bluff and Texarkana.

A trace of rain was reported at El Dorado and .01 of an inch at Memphis during the 24-hour period ended at 7 a.m. today.

Tribute to Duke Ellington

OTTAWA (AP) — About 2,300 persons filled Ottawa's National Arts Center Sunday night to hear Duke Ellington and his 16-piece orchestra. The 70-year-old pianist-composer played his old classics and one of his latest compositions, "Belle Africaine," which he composed for a trip to Senegal.

Hundreds See Whooping Crane

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Firecracker, the world's newest addition to the whooping crane population, was viewed Sunday by hundreds of people who trooped by its cage in the San Antonio Zoo's birdhouse.

Firecracker was hatched Saturday and boosted to 69 the known whooper population. Zoo spokesmen said the offspring of Rosie and Crip probably would be moved to the Patuxent, Md., wildlife refuge where the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has 12 of the young birds.

Zoo attendants said they would have to wait awhile to determine Firecracker's sex.

Defense Counting on New Weapons to Cut Back in Arms Spending

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional defense experts, laying the foundation for massive development of new weapons, are counting on a substantial cutback in the armed forces to open the way for financing the hardware without an increase in military spending.

This is the clear message of two recent statements by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, and from background discussions with other key congressional defense experts.

They indicate a million-man cutback in the 3.5 million man military establishment would save some $10 billion annually of the $80 billion the Pentagon now spends.

Between this sum and the anticipated decline over the next few years in the $25 billion annual cost of the Vietnam war, more than enough funds would be available to pay for new missile systems, long-range bombers, submarines and even the controversial Safeguard missile.

Congress Also Troubled by Campus Riots

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, which has criticized colleges for failing to deal with student uprisings, is having a hard time itself coming to grips with the problem.

Dozens of bills have been introduced, scores of speeches made and committees have spent weeks studying the situation but Congress is still not sure what, if anything, it should do.

The problem is much the same as on many campuses: Sharply conflicting views as to what might be a proper course of action canceling each other out and producing confusion and indecision.

Some tactics used by student agitators have also appeared in the halls of Congress. A boycott by members opposed to legislation effectively shut down the House Education and Labor Committee when a majority appeared ready to approve a bill.

The committee, which has prime responsibility for guiding Congress in this area, has borne the brunt of the battle and its failure to reach any kind of agreement illustrates the conflicting forces working on Congress.

It began looking into the problem in the early spring when the

First Enemy Attack in Week Starts

By GEORGE ESPEY
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong forces today launched their first ground attack in a week, blasting their way into a U.S. military headquarters with grenades and dynamite bombs.

The attack 120 miles northeast of Saigon killed six Americans and wounded 18. U.S. headquarters said "damage to material within the camp was moderate," but field reports said three or four armored personnel carriers were blown up and destroyed and at least one was damaged.

The only known enemy casualties were two soldiers found inside the district headquarters, a spokesman said.

U.S. headquarters said it was the first enemy initiated attack in which five or more Americans were killed since June 20. But a spokesman said "I don't read anything into it. It's an isolated attack in an area that has been usually quiet. The enemy decided to go when they had a target of opportunity."

The sources said the Viet Cong are preparing for another three-point campaign scheduled for late July—increased terrorism linked with stepped up battlefield activity, propagandizing and creating "general disturbances."

South Vietnamese headquarters reported Viet Cong terrorists set off a bomb in a theater in Can Tho City in the Mekong Delta, 76 miles southwest of Saigon, killed one Vietnamese child and another civilian and wounded 36 government soldiers and 27 civilians.

U.S. headquarters reported an Air Force F100 fighter-bomber and an Army OH6 light observation helicopter were shot down by enemy gunners over the weekend. One American was wounded. It raised to 2,830 the number of American helicopters and to 2,379 the number of fixed-wing aircraft lost in the war.

The U.S. Command also reported 15 overnight rocket and mortar attacks compared to 43 Sunday. Eight of these were termed significant and five hit U.S. bases, spokesmen said, adding casualties and damage were light over-all.

"We haven't come up with an analysis yet," said a U.S. spokesman. Referring to the 43 shellings Sunday, the heaviest in three weeks, he said there was "no appreciable pattern or sign of any followup troop movements."

Noting that all action was confined to local force Viet Cong guerrillas, the spokesman added: "We had been forecasting a possible renewed offensive about July 15. Perhaps this was the local forces beginning to prepare for that, but we don't know."

The count began at 6 p.m. Thursday and ended at midnight Sunday.

The victims were identified as Tommy Lemons, 21, and Doyle W. Jones, 16, both of Sheridan; Melvin Haskins, 50, of near Hardy; Corris M. Doss, 34, of Centery; Elbin Eugene Ball, 48, of Elkins; Earl E. Swathes, 55, of Star City and Henry Hubbs, 43, of Peach Orchard (Greene County).

Lemons and Jones died Sunday in a one-car crash about 8.3 miles west of Sheridan on Arkansas 46. Officers said the car driven by Lemons was traveling at a high rate of speed when it apparently went out of control, ran off the highway and struck a tree.

Haskins was killed Saturday when he apparently lost control of his pickup truck on a curve and it crashed into a ditch near Mammoth Springs on U.S. 63.

Doss, Ball, Swathes and Hubbs died in separate accidents over the 78-hour period.

Children in Russia Cheer Astronaut

YALTA, U.S.S.R. (AP) — With a thousand children cheering, U.S. astronaut Frank Borman danced a Russian folk dance today with a pretty girl as he continued his goodwill tour of the Crimea.

At a seaside camp for Pioneers—a Communist youth group—the crew-cut, 41-year-old spaceman stepped and twirled in the hot sun.

Borman's wife, Susan, and his two sons, as well as Soviet cosmonauts German Titov and Konstantin Feoktistov, also danced with the children.

At the end, the kids in the packed grandstands chanted: "Molodets" (well done).

"It was fun," Borman said. "It was like a Virginia reel."

Earlier today, on setting out from his cypress-shaded hotel here, Borman was applauded by a crowd of about 100 Soviet tourists who had stood on the street awaiting him. He thanked them and crossed the street to shake hands and pat children on the head.

Using his evident popularity to pursue closer East-West ties, Borman stopped at every opportunity to greet Soviet vacationers with a smile or wave and signed autographs. He told fans, and later the children at the Artek Youth camp: "We're your friends."

Armstrong Digs Moon

By TOM TIEDE

NEA Staff Correspondent

CAPE KENNEDY—(NEA)

—Let's look ahead. It is Sunday, July 20, early afternoon. And, incredible though it still seems, man has just landed on the moon.

Two men, Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin. Both are Americans—but in a greater sense they represent all nations and peoples of earth.

Their Lunar Module has just settled in a flat, three-by-six mile area known as the Sea of Tranquility.

Finally, it has been done. After nine concentrated years of effort and ages of dreaming, human beings are there, glued to the surface of the place which previous explorers have said "looks like a big chocolate malt."

But there is little time to wonder for Armstrong and Aldrin. The first three minutes after landing are too critical. In these moments they must make a thorough check of their vehicle, searching for signs, regardless how small, that would force them to initiate an immediate emergency take-off.

It could be a leak the size of a period, or a deterioration of an electronic circuit—any minute, pesky thing might cause abortion of the remainder of the lunar landing in favor of safely extracting the two humans.

If nothing is found the astronauts will relax their fervent checkout operation to a more leisurely one—and some 22 hours of precisely planned moon living will commence.

Most of the surface stay will take place aboard the Lunar Module. And the early hours of it especially will be spent in lengthy routine.

Initially, the astronauts will take two full hours to complete postlanding audits. Immediately following, they'll spend another half hour or so eating. Then, for four more hours, they'll rest sap started rising in the student radicals and riots bloomed on campuses across the land.

The pressure for committee action mounted as the flow of mail denouncing the campus rioters increased in congressional offices and members responded by introducing bills that would deal harshly with the colleges and students involved.

It was in an effort to head off such stringent legislation that Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., chairman of the subcommittee with direct authority to act, tried to find a solution. But she got no encouragement from a parade of college officials and other educators who said it was their problem and the cause of academic freedom required Congress to stay out of it.

She also received no encouragement from the administration, which sent Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert H. Finch and Commissioner of Education James E. Allen to express firm opposition to the kind of legislative remedy she was seeking.

In the end she was without the support of her own subcommittee and transferred the fight to the full committee, where a coalition of Republicans and senior Democrats produced a shaky majority for a bill that would require colleges to establish rules of conduct for students and faculty and file them with the government. Failure to do so would result in a loss of fed-defense program.

It would mean most of the $10 billion-$15 billion annual fiscal dividend—the extra government revenue available from the growth of the economy—could be channeled into domestic projects.

Hearings last year by the Senate preparedness subcommittee laid the basis for increased spending over the next decade for military hardware, especially on items deferred in recent years because of war costs.

The current Pentagon budget includes go-ahead funds for the Advanced Manned Strategic Aircraft, a new bomber long sought by the Air Force; and to convert land-based Minuteman II intercontinental ballistic missiles and sea-based Polaris into the multiwarhead Minuteman IIIs and Poseidons.

In addition, the Navy laid out plans for a major new submarine program, the Undersea Long-range Missile System, which would become operational in the late 1970s.

Some 60 per cent of the Pentagon budget currently goes for personnel, operations and maintenance.

In a statement to the Senate June 24, Stennis noted that in "ordinary times" there is no need for anything approaching the 3.5 million man force.

"I am also convinced that the surest, quickest and most effective way to reduce the tremendous military budget is to reduce the number of military personnel."

"Since military pay and allowances alone now account for about one-third of overall military expenditures," he added, "the budget will go down rapidly as the size of the force is decreased."

A week later, in a lengthy defense of past Pentagon weapons expenditures, Stennis said "I think we would make a mistake not to have frontline weapons. We must have the best."

Stennis is known to feel the nation's security is more dependent on up-to-date weapons than on a large standing force.

A cutback in troops would include, in addition to Vietnam, a substantial reduction in the 250,000-man U.S. force in Europe. This level has been under fire in the Senate because of its drain on the U.S. balance of payments as well as the feeling that Europeans should assume a larger share of their defense.

eral education funds. It was the meeting at which this bill was expected to be approved that the opponents boycotted, leaving the committee one short of a quorum and thus unable to act.

mic package. Also a laser ranging retro-reflector.

Their most important duty, however, will be collecting more moon samples. Very early, Armstrong will pick up an additional 50 pounds of loose rock and soil. Then both men will take "documented" (described) samples. Sacks and containers will house the samples, everything to be securely sealed.

In addition to the surface particles, the astronauts will take subsurface material. This will be done by driving a hollow rod into the dirt (another test: How easy does the rod go in?) and cap it in the same configuration.

Other studies will also be made. Aldrin will conduct "reaching" experiments in his spacesuit, to determine working capabilities. Both men will make visual inspections of the Lunar Module and the ground it violates. Some 100 still photographs will be taken of everything observed.

All of this activity, if all of it goes well, will take about two and one-half hours. During this time, the vulnerable earthlings will remain in the shadow of their ship (not more than 300 feet away) preparing, in fact, to depart.

At about 5 a.m., the departure will begin. Aldrin will "ingress" into the module first. Armstrong will pass up the lunar samples and follow.

Once again inside their ship, the two astronauts will conduct an hour and a half of vehicle, instrument and equipment checks. Then they'll eat (40 minutes), rest (four hours), and complete preflight preparations.

And early in the afternoon they'll become the first men in history to blast off from the moon and head for earth.

91st Congress Faces Big Job Upon Returning

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The 91st Congress, which has little to show for its first six months, returns to work today after its fourth recess this year.

Its major tasks lie ahead, and there are enough of them to keep the legislators busy until Christmas.

Congress' official "Status of Major Bills" lists only one measure enacted into law. That increased the national debt limit.

Not a single regular annual appropriation bill providing funds for the fiscal year that started July 1 has been enacted. There are 13 of them. Only three have passed the House.

Only three times since 1960 has Congress failed to enact at least one of the money bills by the time the new fiscal year started.

Federal agencies whose funds are involved have been given temporary and limited financing until Oct. 31, when another stop-gap measure may be required.

Two major bills have passed the House only but have not emerged from Senate committees. One provides for federal aid for elementary and secondary education. The other continues the income surtax for another year.

The extension bill does not include any major tax law revisions, but the Senate may add them to the House bill.

The House Ways and Means

Committee has promised to come up with a separate tax revision measure before a three week recess starts Aug. 13. It is expected to close loopholes allegedly of benefit only to wealthy individuals and big business.

The tax fight may be rivaled for bitterness only by a decision facing Congress on deployment of an antiballistic missile system.

The missile defense battle is scheduled to start early this month in the Senate and may tie up that body for weeks.

Stalemate in Senate or

House committees are bills dealing with crime curbs, reorganization of the Postoffice Department, Congressional reorganization, extension of antipoverty programs, and electoral college reforms.

A bill to continue restrictions on cigarette advertising has passed the House only.

The Senate, however, has ratified the nuclear nonproliferation treaty. No House action is required.

The Gospel of St. Mark is generally considered to be the earliest of the Gospels.
